Mrs. King is currently in her 27th year as an educator at Blue River Valley Schools. A graduate of Yorktown High School, Mrs. King holds both a bachelor's degree and master's degree from Ball State University. Mrs. King began her career at Blue River Valley Jr/Sr High School teaching seventh and eighth grade mathematics. After 13 years in the classroom, Mrs. King moved to the corporation office to serve in her current position as Director of Educational Programs. In this role Mrs. King oversees Blue River Valley's special education program, serves as the corporation 504 and high ability coordinator, manages all of the corporation's federal grants and oversees compliance, serves as corporation preschool director, and serves as the corporation foster youth point of contact.

Mrs. King has been married to her husband Jason for 25 years and they have two children. Daughter Katie is currently a senior at Purdue University and will be graduating in May of 2022 with a degree in Industrial Engineering. Son Sam is currently a Freshman at Rose-Hulman Institute of Technology where he is studying Chemical Engineering and playing baseball.

Mrs. King's goal is to work as an advocate for the students and teachers of Blue River Valley Schools. She believes that every student can learn and become their personal best with the right support. Mrs. King strives to treat each Blue River Valley student with the same regard and care she would have expected her own children to have received from their teachers. When viewing any situation with students the guiding questions Mrs. King asks herself is, "What would I expect/want if this were my child?" Mrs. King feels blessed to work with a staff that never lets her down when she asks this question.
